

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Proposed is a method of displaying a transmission log such that it can be easily recognized. Images are transmitted to an external device. A list holding 5 information representing the transmitted images and information representing the transmission order of the images is generated. On the basis of the information held in this list, the transmitted images and order are displayed.

10